Ode to Joy
Beethoven's 9th Symphony

SATURDAY, SEPT. 21, 7:30P
Kirk Muspratt, Music Director and Conductor

Beethoven's Symphony No. 9, featuring the popular final movement "Ode to Joy," is commonly regarded as Beethoven's greatest work. Composed when he was completely deaf, Beethoven was the first orchestral composer to use the human voice in a symphony. The orchestra is joined by four vocalists and the 100-voice Northwest Indiana Symphony Chorus for the conclusion of this masterpiece. Beethoven's expressive Egmont Overture opens the New Philharmonic season as we share our joy of music with you.

BUS GROUPS WELCOME | FREE PARKING

We offer a variety of customized entertainment packages to help create a memorable and special experience for friends, family and co-workers alike! Along with reduced ticket prices, the MAC team can help plan and execute private events around the performance you attend including pre- or post-show receptions, cocktail hours, full banquet catering, artist meet-and-greets, backstage tours or educational lectures and Q&A sessions.

Let us help create a package for your group - call our friendly, professional and knowledgeable sales team today at 630.942.3026.

MAKE A NIGHT OF IT!

VIP Experience

Let the MAC complete your evening! Enjoy a private VIP experience 45 minutes prior to showtime and during intermission. Treat yourself and your guests to a private lounge area with a personal bartender serving champagne, wine, beer and soda. The experience also includes your choice of appetizers and dessert.

The VIP Experience is available at select shows for $30 per person.

Visit AtTheMAC.org for details.

EAT, DRINK & ENJOY - MAC DINING PARTNERS

For all your pre-show meals and post-show bites, we are thrilled to be partnering with these neighborhood restaurants. Our dining partners will offer MAC patrons exclusive discounts and special offers. Plus, all ticket orders to the MAC include coupons and a few lucky patrons will win gift certificates to these local favorites!
